

The Methodology Report should be a short and concise document, outlining all essential information in the form of tables and clearly understandable figures (at sufficient scale and including relevant key). The structure and content of a typical Methodology Report are presented below. Any variation from the below structure needs to be agreed with the Reviewer and documented in minutes, which will need to be attached to the report.