

- The office: The place for practicing office activity and its area is not less than (100) square meters.
- The room : A place for residential purposes or any other purpose which require people residence temporally or permanently and its area is not less than (100) square feet.
- The kitchen: A place for preparing food or drinks and its area is not less than (40) square feet. Only one kitchen is allowed in one residential unit.
- The preparation kitchen: A place for making light drinks and it can't be replaced by the kitchen in a residential units.
- The apartment (residential unit): A part of a building ready to settle in. It includes a room or more with a hall whose area is not less than (100) square feet which is ready and designed for the residence of one person or many people. It includes only one kitchen as well as at least one lavatory which form an independent rental unit.
- The studio: A part of a building ready to settle in. It includes only one room. It is designed for one person or more and it has a kitchen and a lavatory. This part forms an independent rental unit.
- The janitor's residence: A room or a unit or a place that is on the same plot in which the building is set on or it is inside the building where the janitor lives . Its area is not less than (70) square feet.
- The servants' residence: A room or connected or separate rooms that are built on the same plot where the main building is. It is for the servants who work in the building and the area of the room is not less than (70) square feet.
- The storehouse: The ceiled part in a building which is used as a place for storing substances where you can compile or sort them to reship them or store them again without having any change in the chemical or the natural qualities for the original substances.
- The outer storehouse: That part which is not ceiled where goods or substances or vehicles or stored in.
- The parking lot: A building or an establishment or any part of them which is used or dedicated for parking or storing cars. It may or may not have a ceiling.
- The passage: A ceiled passage which is connected to any building. It is opened to a street or to an uncovered yard or it connects between more than one building.
- Sunshade: Any cover which is projecting from the wall of any building or any cover that is set on columns to protect any door or window or passage from rain or sunlight.
- The stairwell: A space in the building where the stairs are inside it.
- The arbors: a sunshade with a ceiling that is undecorated which has holes with a percentage not less than (50%). It is usually built for architectural decoration or for climate purposes.
- Trash room: A place or a room approved by the competent administration in the ground floor in the same building to store trash temporary in order to be carried outside the building to get rid of it .This place or room can be within the borders of the building or the plot according to the approval of the competent administration.
- Porches: uncovered or covered projections which are out of the vertical level of the outer walls that are next to it from the building. They can be reached from inside the building.
- Decorative elements: the elements which are added to the building for aesthetical or expressive or symbolic purposes and it can't be used for commercial or residential purposes or as permanent or temporary porches.