

904.06.02 Multiple Message Guide Signs
(Example 900-03)

For multiple message guide signs, the rules and base dimensions for a single message guide shall apply, with a few additions and exceptions.

Guide sign width shall be determined by the widest message (message width, arrow width and offsets), measured as if it was a single message guide sign.

To achieve a recommended height, changes in the adjustable dimensions should be spread as evenly as possible throughout all messages.

The multiple sign should be shown with a similar dimensional breakdown as the single message sign (Example 900-02).

The following paragraphs provide guides for use with messages containing arrows. Separate guide arrows for each message:

- The smaller message shall not be centered with the larger message, but placed with the same offsets from the guide arrow side of the sign as if they were a single message sign.
- A single white stripe of 3 cm or 5 cm shall be placed between all messages that use separate guide arrows. English and Arabic lettering shall be offset from this line as from the border stripes in a single message guide sign.
- It is preferable to place the guide arrows on opposite sides of the guide sign.

Separate guide arrows for each message:

- These multiple messages shall be centered with the center of the largest message.
- The dimension between two messages shall be the same as between the Arabic lettering and the upper border stripe on a single message guide sign.
- The guide arrow shall be vertically centered. It will also be horizontally offset from the largest message as in a single message sign.

Separate guide arrows for each message (multiple messages):

- The smaller messages shall not be centered with largest message, but placed with the same offsets from the guide arrow side of the sign as if they were a single message sign.
- A single white stripe of 3 or 5 cm shall be placed between all messages that use separate guide arrows. English and Arabic lettering shall be offset from this line as from the border stripes in a single message guide sign.
- It is preferable to place the guide arrows on opposite sides of the guide sign.

Same guide arrow for multiple messages:

- These multiple messages shall be centered with the center of the largest message.
- The dimension between two messages shall be the same as between the Arabic lettering and the upper border stripe on a single message guide sign.
- The guide arrow shall be vertically centered. It will also be horizontally offset from the largest message as in a single message sign.